ENFIELD, 3rd January, 1888.

The Honorable
The Superintendent General of Indian Affairs,
Ottawa.

SIR,—In submitting my report and tabular statement for the year ended 30th June, 1887, I have the pleasure to repeat that there is no material change in Indians of Halifax County.

They are, on the whole temperate, and those engaged in agricultural pursuits devote more time than previously to the cultivation of their farms.

There are six families who live principally on the sale of their manufactured wares having no farms to reside on.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,

A. P. DESMOND.

INDIAN OFFICE,
REGINA, 30th December, 1887.

The Honorable
The Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs,
Ottawa.

SIR,—I have the honor to submit the following report on the surveying operations under my charge in the North-West Territories during the past season.

Mr. Ponton was entrusted with certain surveys in the Province of Manitoba, and his report has already been transmitted.

On the 17th of June I arrived in Regina from Ottawa and proceeded to organize a small party with a light travelling outfit. As the surveys this season were in various parts of Treaties 4, 6 and 7, it was considered desirable to procure supplies and labor, when needed, in the neighborhood of the different reserves, thus effecting a saving of time in travelling from one place to another.

On 2nd July I left Regina and proceeded to File Hills via Fort Qu'Appelle. On the morning of the 6th we halted for breakfast at a small pond near the south-west corner of Peepeekeesis Reserve, this being the first water met with since leaving Farrel's Ranch, at which place we procured a supply at the wells the previous night. All along the route from Regina the country was found to be very much dried up this season, and water unusually scarce.

I proceeded to re-establish the south-west corner of Peepeekeesis' Reserve, and to run the south boundary afresh. The west boundary of this reserve was originally run by Mr. Allan Patrick, D. L. S., in 1880, and I had no difficulty in finding his line, on which I established the south-west corner at a point 65.62 chains west of the south-east corner of Section 33, Township 21, Range 11, west of the 2nd Initial Meridian. Mr. Patrick reported that he could not project the south boundary owing to the country being partly submerged that season, but he signified his intention of making this boundary correspond with the section lines. These section lines were subsequently run by contract surveyors, and adopted as the boundary of the reserve, and on the accompanying sketch, marked (a), I have shown the positions of the posts and mounds along this line. At the south-west corner the Indians are cultivating the land right up to Mr. Patrick's line properly regardless of another line apparently run by the subdivider, and cutting a strip over two chains wide off the reserve. On this latter line, 2.37 chains east of the corner established by me, I found a post and mound marking the south-west corner of the reserve, these I obliterated.

When running the south boundary across Range 11, I found the old line well cut out, but across Range 10 the timber apparently has grown amazingly since the line was run, and the Indians did not know where it was. I found only a small trespass committed by cutting hay, and it appeared that a few sticks of firewood had been hauled from the reserve out of some bluffs north of the boundary line. Trespassing on reserves, however slight it may be, is regarded by the Indians as no small matter.

Along the south boundary of the reserve the country is very dry and water very scarce. The small grassy swamps are all dried up and there is but little hay where it used to be plentiful. Some of the settlers just outside the reserve are obliged to drive their stock two or three miles to water.

On the morning of the 11th I struck northerly and followed a chain of lakes across the reserves and halted for noon at Hausen's in the Norwegian settlement. These people had fine crops and were not troubled by the gophers, which were a regular pest in other parts of the country. A few notes were taken at the jog on the east boundary of the reserves, and we proceeded on and struck the Saskatchewan cart trail in the evening and camped at some lakes a few miles farther on the road. On the 12th we stopped at noon at a chain of lakes in a well wooded country, in which a number of half-breeds have settled, with a view, apparently, of raising stock, for they have a numerous band of cattle, and on the 13th reached Mr. Indian Agent Keith's well appointed establishment in the Touchwood Hills.

Mr. Keith informed me that "Day Star" was desirous of having a change in the position of the boundaries of his reserve, and suggested that it might be well to drive out to the payments then going on and see what he had to say about it. After the treaty payments were made Mr. Keith invited the chief to come to the agency next morning and decide on the proposed changes. Day Star did not come. I think he is loathe to part with the north end of the old reserve on account of the timber on it. I have been informed, however, that he has decided to give up the north end in lieu of an extension southwards.

On the evening of the 15th I proceeded on to Carrot River, via Humboldt. In the Poor Man's Reserve there has been much improvement since 1884. The crops, with the exception of potatoes, looked very well and the fields are neatly fenced.

On the 18th we camped on the north trail, a few miles beyond Humboldt, and on the morning of the 20th struck the finger post pointing out the trail to Carrot River. We went off on this trail and travelled over an undulating prairie of rich black loam interspersed with clumps of poplar and scrub, passing to the west of a good sized lake. Along the route there is luxuriant vegetation and a great abundance of strawberries. After making twelve miles we entered a more thickly wooded country and owing to heavy rains the previous night the roads were very bad along the valley of Carrot River, between the Pasquia and Birch Hills. In this valley there are several lakes affording excellent fishing to the Indians, some of which it might be well to reserve for their use. Mr. Robertson, of Kinisteno, informed me that the Indians sometimes give a double sleigh load of fish for a barrel of flour.

On the 22nd we crossed Carrot River and entered the prairie country adjoining Waterhen Lake. The trail follows the edge of the lake for eight miles, over a slightly undulating prairie of rich, black soil, supporting a heavy growth of grass and pea vine, and a variety of flowering plants. The bank of the lake is from 6 to 12 feet high, and between this bank and the present edge of the water there is a strip of choice hay ground about 100 yards wide. The lake is shallow and filled with reeds. Looking south-eastward from the lake the northern slope of the Pasquia Hills is a prominent topographical feature. In the afternoon I passed "Kinisteno" (meaning "Cree") and thence down the Carrot River to the Indian reserve. The crops in this district were by far the heaviest I had seen anywhere in the Territories. The country possesses all the advantages that could be desired for forming a settlement, in the way of a general diffusion of hay grounds, rich soil, wood and good water. Some of the farmers have large bands of cattle, and I saw a fine specimen of a thoroughbred Durham bull at Mr. Robertson's. Leaving my camp at Carrot River on the 25th I proceeded to Fort à la Corne, via the Pee-o-nan, to procure supplies and engage a party of Indians to lay out a reserve for the contingent of the Cumberland Band and such other Indians as may be assigned locations therein.

On my arrival at the reserve of James Smith, I informed that chief of my movements and requested him to secure for me the services of a party of Indians with as little delay as possible. In two hours he had engaged all the men I required, some from his own band and some from the Cumberland Band, settled three miles south of Fort à la Corne.

On the following morning, accompanied by Mr. Philip Turner, Hudsons' Bay Company's officer, in charge of Fort à la Corne, I visited the settlement of the Cumberland Band. I found that all these Indians are located north and east of Township 47, Range 20, west of the 2nd Initial Meridian; in fact the Indian settlement extends along the east boundary of James Smith's Reserve right up to the south boundary of the Hudson Bay Company's Reserve and east of Townships 47 and 48, about three quarters of a mile. I explained to Chapman, who is looked upon as chief of the band, that I had no authority to allot them any land outside of Townships 46 and 47, but that I would in the meantime mark off a temporary reserve covering all their improvements, and possibly the Department might secure it for them. Chapman said they would move to the junction of Goose Hunting Creek with Carrot River in the event of not obtaining the land upon which they are now settled. This tract is colored green on the accompanying sketch of the reserve marked (b). They are doing very well and it would be too bad to disturb them. I then returned to my camp at Carrot River and proceeded to survey the reserve.

The north-western part of this reserve, with the exception of some small prairie openings and brulés, is a level to undulating wooded country, broken by lakes and hay swamps. There are large quantities of medium-sized black poplar, as well as much scrub and small poplar. A considerable area is occupied by a sandy ridge extending north-easterly across the township. In the north-eastern part there are some small prairies of rich soil and on these the Indians have built houses and cultivated gardens, out of which they are striving to make a living. This part of the reserve is also much broken by swamps, many of these affording excellent hay; and in the extreme north-east corner there is a small tract of good poplar building timber. The portion lying south of Carrot River contains a great many lakes and hay swamps. The soil is rich and the herbage luxuriant. Along the valley of Goose Hunting Creek there are prairie openings and bluffs of good poplar, and this part of the reserve would be a desirable place for settlement, if crops would ripen. For stock raising it is admirably adapted. There is a strip of poplar timber about half a mile deep extending along the Carrot River for two miles or more at the junction of Goose Hunting Creek. The reserve is well watered by Carrot River and Goose Hunting Creek, and contains an area of about 65 square miles.

The Indians employed on this survey worked well, especially those of the Cumberland Band, as they are evidently accustomed to hard work.

On the 17th the survey was finished and I proceeded to Duck Lake, via Prince Albert. Most of the land along the trail from Carrot River to Chekaatappaysin's Reserve is of good quality. This trail is in very good repair and the bridges are nearly all new. We arrived at the South Branch on the 18th, and the following morning were rowed over the ferry by Mr. Adam Isbister. We camped at Prince Albert for the night and on the 20th arrived at Duck Lake. The crops along the route looked very fine.

On the 22nd, having secured the services of two good Indians, I began to mark the boundaries of Beardy's Reserve. I opened out the lines and planted posts and built mounds wherever they were required. This reserve is a generally rolling sandy prairie with scattered bluffs of poplar and scrub. In the northern part there are rolling sandy ridges, along the edges of which tracts of muskeg occur. In the southern part there is a better soil, and a large area of hay grounds, but hardly any woodland. There are other small meadows throughout the reserve; alkali swamps are numerous in the south-west corner.

I established the boundaries as shown by the accompanying sketch c, thus including in the reserve the selections originally reserved by Mr. Lestock Reid, when subdividing this district. I also included the west half of Section 6, Township 44, Range 2, a fractional half section, bordering Duck Lake, which was probably intended to form part of the reserve; but on this point the township plans are indefinite.

Beardy's Indians lay claim to Sections 24 and 25, in Township 43, Range 3, and allege that they were given to understand by the surveyor that these sections would form part of their reserve; and they are strongly supported in these allegations by one Baptiste Agaw, a neighboring half breed, who cuts all the hay he wants on the reserve.

Furthermore, the Indians informed me that in wet seasons large areas of the meadows they are now cutting become submerged, and during such periods they are dependent principally upon the meadows in Section 25, to afford a supply of hay. I carefully investigated the matter, and am of the opinion that the Indians are under a misapprehension.

I subsequently heard from Mr. Reid that there was no doubt whatever about the matter, and that Beardy and his band accepted the reserve as shown on the township plans. I explained to them that neighboring settlers were partly dependent upon the meadows in Sections 24 and 25 for a supply of hay, but that as they themselves were in the habit of cutting hay on the north half of Section 25, I would represent their claim to the Department, and recommend that this half section be assigned to them; they finally told me that if this were granted, they would be satisfied.

I pointed out to Meatchis and Shee-sheepbwehis where the line would run in the event of this extension being added to the reserve. I have colored this fractional half section green on the accompanying sketch. It contains the best hay grounds on the two sections. Since writing this, my report, I find that these two sections have been set aside by the Department.

Of wheat, oats, barley and potatoes, there is a large area under crop this season on these reserves, and the yield is abundant and superior in quality.

On the 23th I paid off my two Indians, Meatchis and Sheesheepbwehis, whom I found to be good workmen, and at sundown we struck out for Battleford, via Carlton. Along the route, as far as Eagle Creek, water is scarce and the herbage scanty. The mules seemed to be able to fill themselves with the short dry grass, but the ponies felt inclined to wander off.

We reached Battleford on the 3rd of September and camped at the springs, 4 miles out.

On the 5th I visited Mr. Laurie, acting agent at the Indian office, and received from him further instructions re surveys of hay lands in the Battleford District. Afterwards I purchased supplies and secured the services of one Joseph House, a half-breed, and proceeded on to Moosomin's Reserve, to survey part of it into lots. Joseph House has the reputation of being a slow lazy fellow, but I found him lively enough, and as good, if not better, than most of his class, and retained him till the end of the season.

On the 6th I held a council with Chief Moosomin and some of his headmen, and explained to them the object of my visit, and of subdividing a portion of their reserve, viz, that the Department is desirous of seeing each head of a family independently working a farm, and that I would mark off for them such lots fronting on the road, along which they have built their houses, as we thought they would be able to work properly, and that the remainder of the reserve would, as at present, be the common property of the band.

I pointed out to them that their farming operations had hitherto been carried on in a very straggling manner, and that in order to succeed they must bring their fields into shape and fence them along the lines I would run; and that I would endeavor to run these lines in such a manner that each man's house and improvements would be on the lot assigned to him. They seemed to be quite taken up with the idea and on the completion of the survey two other Indians made a request to have claims staked off a mile and a quarter further up the river. Chief Moosomin complained of the scarcity of hay on his reserve, and was pleased to hear that some sections were secured for him at Crooked Hill Creek.

On the 14th, leaving the party to mound up the lots, I chartered a pony from Atowakeesie and rode out to Crooked Hill Lake, accompanied by Mr. Instructor Applegarth. After carefully examining the lands in that neighborhood we selected and reserved 1,280 acres of very excellent hay grounds for the use of the bands of Moosomin and Thunder Child. These hay grounds are situated about thirteen miles north-east of Moosomin's Reserve on Crooked Hill Creek, which flows into Jackfish Lake. They are comprised of the west half of Section 13, Section 14, and the east half of Section 24, in Township 46, Range 16, west of the 3rd initial meridian. There is wood enough near hand to build byres for wintering the Indian cattle. The surrounding country is high and rolling prairie; the soil is dry and burnt up by last year's prairie fires. There is said to be excellent fishing not far from the hay grounds, and wild fowl are plentiful in the creeks and lakes. I am told that jackfish are so plentiful that they can be scooped out of the creek with a shovel or pitchfork. We arrived at camp late in the evening. The water had fallen so low in the Saskatchewan that our horses had but a short distance to swim while crossing to and fro.

On the 5th at the request of Atowakeesie and Keopitawamat, already mentioned, I staked off claims for them, by marking their names on a post, and laying off a meridian to guide them in building their fences, in the presence of Mr. Applegarth.

The soil in this section is much better than at Moosomin's settlement, and there is a good supply of poplar timber. In the afternoon I proceeded up Battle River vid the reserve of "Strike-him-on-the-back." A large party of Indians paid us a visit shortly after the tents were pitched. They were very glad to hear that hay grounds would be secured for them on Battle River, on which subject they seemed to be much interested. On the following morning we resumed our journey westward accompanied by Mr. Instructor Fitzpatrick who was in attendance to point out the hay grounds required for the bands of "Strike-him-on-the-back" and "Sweet Grass." These are bottom lands, almost wholly situated on the south side of Battle River, and comprised of sections 14 and 15, Township 45, Range 20, west of the third Initial Meridian; there are about fifty acres of these lands across the river. The location is well sheltered and admirably adopted for wintering stock, but the area affording heavy hay is limited—at least it is so this season.

In the evening we travelled up Battle River and camped in Little Pine's settlement at some springs, about four miles west of Poundmaker's Reserve, where we found pasture of excellent quality.

On the 17th, in accordance with arrangements made the previous evening, Mr. Gopsil drove out with me in the direction of Manitou Lake to examine certain lands, with a view of securing some sections for hay grounds for the bands of "Poundmaker" and "Little Pine." When Mr. Gopsil visited this part of the country in the spring it was supposed that some swamps he met with, and examined, would yield large quantities of hay. On re examination at this date we found the grass rather short and poor in quality. These hay grounds are situated in a valley, or depression, which extends many miles north and south, in a high rolling plain. The valley contains a chain of lakes and some straggling boulders, and at its northern extension a grove of good poplar timber occurs, sufficiently large for the construction of byres. However, I did not consider it desirable to lay out these hay grounds, for it would take a narrow strip of 8 or 10 miles in length to cover them, and I am of the opinion that they would give out in a short time. About twelve miles north-west of Little Pine's Reserve there is a tract of land to which I drew Mr. Gopsil's attention, and in which I believe suitable hay grounds for the use of these bands may be found; for in 1884 I encountered some extensive meadows while passing through that country. I regretted being unable to revisit the place by reason of coming to Regina but Mr. Gopsil said he would give attention to the matter.

On our return to camp, Mr. Gopsil and I examined the lands upon which the bands of "Little Pine" and "Lucky Man" have settled, and I decided to make the reserve five miles square as shown by the accompanying plan, marked (d), and proceeded with the survey.

This reserve contains twenty-five sections and a small gore adjoining the west boundary of Poundmaker's Reserve. The townships in which it lies are sub divided. It is situated on Battle River, thirty-five miles west of Battleford. The location is remarkably beautiful and the soil is very much better than that on the reserve of Poundmaker which bounds it on the east side. There are hay meadows, rich soil, plenty of good water, a variety of wild berries, fishing grounds, and on the north side of Battle River an abundance of timber; on the north side, however, the soil is generally light and sandy.

There is coal on Poundmaker's Reserve at the Keeskeegoman or Cut Knife and probably also in that of Little Pine.

The soil is well adapted for grain growing, as attested by the crops of last season; the wheat was of superior quality and well harvested.

In accordance with your message, received on the 18th, I started to Regina, leaving Little Pine's Reserve on the 20th in time to catch the stage running between Battleford and Swift Current. I instructed my party to complete the chaining, posting, and mounding of the boundaries of this reserve and proceed on to Bear's Hill Agency and await me there.

I arrived at Regina on the 26th. After waiting some days for Mr. Wilkins, D. L. S., of the Department of the Interior, I started for Calgary on the 11th October, having been informed by that gentleman that he would probably arrive there about that date. Mr. Wilkins arrived at Calgary on the 17th. After consulting the Rev. John McDougall in regard to mission surveys, it was decided to leave the survey of the Morley Mission until other instructions, regarding surveys in the north, were carried out.

Leaving Calgary by the regular mail stage on the 20th I arrived at Bear's Hill on the 23rd. Mr. Wilkins proceeded on to Saddle Lake, and on his return I was glad to hear that the half section recommended by me for Methodist Mission purposes had been examined, approved of, and finally surveyed by Mr. Wilkins.

On the 24th, Mr. Agent Lucas was consulted in regard to the mission claim and the dividing line between the bands of Chief Samson and Ermine Skin.

The following day my party came in from the elbow, at which point they had been camping since their arrival from Little Pine's reserve. I continued the survey of the mission claim at the Rev. Mr. Glass' by extending the boundaries across the Battle River in order to embrace an area of 320 acres, now finally marked off, as shown by the accompanying sketch marked (e).

On the 28th, accompanied by Mr. Lucas, I visited the Bear's Hill and explored the timber in that part of the reserve, with a view of gaining a better knowledge of its position and extent, so that the dividing line already mentioned, would, as nearly as possible, give to each band an equal share of the timber, the good land and the hay grounds. A plan showing the proposed dividing line was submitted to the chiefs, and, subsequently, during the progress of the survey, some immaterial changes in its position were effected at their request.

I employed three Indians on this survey, "Pierre" (son of "Ermine Skin") "George" and "Jerome," from Sampson's band.

The former is certainly a promising young fellow and the chief may be well proud of him.

A sketch of the dividing line, marked (f), accompanies this report.

The crops on these reserves seem to be unusually large this season and the Indians are quite happy and much improved in their condition during the last few years.

Several of the squaws can knit stockings and mittens, and make good bread, thanks to Mrs. Ross and her daughter who have always a kind word and a helping hand for these unfortunate people.

On the evening of the 5th of November I purchased a supply of barley and oats from Sampson and started for Morleyville. The following day being Sunday we remained in camp near Mr. Glass' mission, and we all attended service in the evening; the congregation was composed chiefly of whites and half breeds. The Indians attend the morning service which is conducted in the Cree language.

On the 6th we proceeded on to Morleyville going off on the old cart trail at the Lone Pine. This trail passes over a grand stretch of undulating prairie, in full view of the Rocky Mountains nearly all the way to Bow River. From Beaver Dam Creek to Bow River cattle ranches here and there break the monotony.

On the 14th we halted for noon at Ghost River and arrived at our destination in the evening.

On the 15th I followed up Jacob's Creek, and pointed out the boundaries of Jacob's Reserve to George Ear and Luke and explained to them that they had made a grave mistake in urging Mr. Bélanger, D. L. S., while he was making the settlement survey at Morley, to follow a traverse line and call it a boundary of the reserve, instead of the true and original boundary which is Jacob's Creek.

Mr. Wilkins arrived from the north on the 16th and in accordance with previous arrangements to work together we commenced the survey of the Methodist mission claim. The Rev. Mr. McDougall having explained the matter thoroughly to the Indians they made no objections to the survey.

The form of the mission claim is irregular as it was thought desirable not to interfere with any of the Indian improvements or old houses, vide accompanying sketch, marked (g).

Before leaving Morley, Chinniky on behalf of all the other Indians, urgently requested, through the Rev. Mr. McDougall, to have the boundaries of the reserves re-established, as the old marks, owing to heavy bush fires, are now nearly all destroyed, and it is difficult for them to know when trespass is committed. Chinniky also remarked that he was of the opinion that some white settlers were trespassing on the reserve near the south east corner.

I requested Mr. McDougall to tell Chinniky that I could not undertake the survey this fall but that I would examine the place of trespass.

Anchor ice was running thickly in Bow River on the morning of the 22nd as we crossed en route for Calgary.

I examined the line near the south-east corner and found that timber had been cut and taken off the reserve as suspected by the Indians.

After an uneventful trip we arrived in Calgary on the morning of the 25th and took the night train for Regina. The outfit was left in charge of Mr. John McMullen to be shipped by the Canadian Pacific Railway. It arrived on the 29th. Mr. McMullen was retained a few days longer to stow away the camp equipage and plant and deliver the transport animals to Mr. Agent Lash in whose charge they remain as usual for the winter.

I have prepared the following list showing the situation and area of all the Indian Reserves in Treaties 4, 6 and 7 as they stand at this date.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN C. NELSON, D. L. S.,
