Cardinal Léger Visits Fort-Alexander Mission

FORT ALEXANDER, Manitoba, August 8.— The Sauteux Indians of Fort Alexander Reservation have welcomed as an honored guest, a Prince of the Church; His Eminence Cardinal Paul-Émile Léger, Archbishop of Montreal.

The Fort Alexander Reserve is hundreds and ten miles North-West of Winnipeg. Over a hundred and seven years ago the first Oblate Missionaries began their apostolic work in that area.

Cardinal Léger came from Winnipeg by car; arriving at the reservation he was met by Father C. Ruest, O.M.I., Parish Priest, and by the chief of the Reservation, Mr. William Brûyère. Accompanying His Eminence were Bishops M. Baudoux, of St. Boniface, H. Routhier, O.M.I., Coadjutor of Grouard, J. Coderre, Bishop of St. John, Quebec, and J. Bonhomme, O.M.I., (former Vicar Apostolic of Basaloland), and Colonel C. Beaudry, Chaplain of the Canadian Army, as well as many other dignitaries.

Dinner was served in the Parish Hall where two hundred guests heard messages from His Eminence, Bishop Baudoux, Father Ruest, Father Paul Piéch, O.M.I., Provincial of the Manitoba Oblates, Chief W. Brûyère, and Mr. B. Guimont, Secretary of the Mani­toba Indian Association.

JUNIOR SEMINARY

His Eminence visited the Junior Seminary, opened in the priests’ residence, at the Fort Alexander Mission; Father A. Plamondon, O.M.I., encouraged by Bishop Baudoux, has opened a Junior Seminary where eight or nine students, will be preparing for the Priesthood.

These students follow the regular Junior High School curriculum, and after class hours take Latin and Music Lessons.

Cardinal Léger had high words of praise for Father Plamondon’s initiative; in his address he stressed at the fact that all Junior Seminaries in the Province of Quebec had begun in priests’ residences. Bishop Baudoux said that Father Plamondon followed the footsteps of Bishop Norbert Provencel, first Bishop of Western Canada, whose hundredth anniversary of death was remembered this year; Bishop Provencel gave Latin lessons to a few young men himself, when, in 1810, he founded St. Boniface College.

The Fort Alexander Indian people number 800; they farm, hunt and trap, while many of them are working at nearby papermills.

The Mission proper consists of a large residential school erected in 1910, a beautiful church, a parish hall, (erected a few years ago), and the priests’ residence.

After the banquet everyone knelt at Our Lady of Lourdes grotto, to attend benediction of Blessed Sacrament. After a last exchange of good wishes the Prince of the Church and his escort left Fort Alexander, bidding a last adieu to the happy and grateful Indians, who had just lived one of the most beautiful days of their lives.

Maliseet Band Retains Tribal Land

OMOROCITO, N.B., May 21.— Twenty five Maliseet Indians will retain possession of 56 acres of land, on which their homes stand, while they are selling 69 acres of the reserve to the Department of National Defence.

The land bought from the Indians by the Department of National Defence will be part of Camp Gagetown, which will cover 2,900 acres in Sunbury and Queens counties, N.B.

Indian Saves Girl, 11, Repeats Hero Role

A 32-year-old Caughnawaga Indian staged a life-saving feat for the second time in five years on July 22.

Eleven-year-old Lorna Payton, also of Caughnawaga, was pulled from the swift current of the St. Lawrence by Peter “Cyclone” Taylor seconds before she was carried towards the Lachine Rapids.

Mr. Taylor’s feat was reported to The Herald by a policeman stationed in the area.

“This is the second time he’s saved a child from sure death. The first time was in 1948 when he swam after a drowning boy in the same river near Caughna­waga. I think he deserves some recognition,” the policeman said.

THE INDIAN ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA, of Staten Island, N.Y. and its officers are cooperating in a move for the return of the Indian Head nickel and the Indian Head penny in the coinage of the United States, as a fitting memorial of the American Indians and their cultural contributions to our civilization.
Equitable Educational System

Many religious, men and women, are teaching in the Netherlands, where the present educational system is the best evidence of the good relations established between the State and the religious communions during the past 100 years.

When in England, Catholics, wondering how they can meet the costs of their schools, seek to describe as nearly ideal a position as they can imagine in a mixed State, they speak of “the Dutch system.”

State subsidies have been given to the Catholic elementary schools of Holland since 1888, and to Catholic secondary schools and colleges since 1917. Full equality of treatment for the confessional schools was obtained in 1920, and today the State and the local authorities make to the Catholic and Protestant schools alike the same grants they make to their own neutral schools.

The result of this arrangement is that three-quarters of the children of the Netherlands receive their education in confessional schools of one kind or another, and only one-quarter are sent by their parents to the State schools.

An Important Appointment

The appointment of a bishop of the Church is always an event of profound spiritual and historical significance. But the appointment of the Archbishop to the See of Ottawa, to the capital of Canada, is an event of particular interest.

At the crossroads of Canadian life where those rich streams of diverse Canadian backgrounds and cultural strains meet and merge into the colorful pattern of surging young nationhood, the duties and official contacts of the Archbishop of Ottawa are in many respects unique.

The years Archbishop-designate Lemieux spent in Japan, his studies in Rome and at Oxford together with his pastoral and episcopal experiences in Canada have given him a rare background for the exacting administrative and spiritual demands of leadership awaiting him.

The high esteem in which he was held not only by the groups of differing racial strains and languages but by Catholics and non-Catholics alike is a matter of record as well as of special significance for the future. (The ENSIGN)
Quebec, Maritime Indians Meeting at Loretteville

Homemakers Convention

The third convention of Quebec and Maritime Indians was held early in August at the Huron reservation at Loretteville, P. Q.

Representatives from most tribes in the Province and in the Maritime provinces are meeting to discuss Indian affairs and take part in social activities from authentic Indian dances to pow-wows.

The three-day convention began with a three-hour pow-wow, which was welcomed by Miss Anne Marie Sicot, honorary president of the Club de Lorette. Short speeches were also given by Maurice Bastien, federal agent for Indians and president of the convention; Colonel H.M. Jones, deputy director of the Indian Affairs division; and Jules D'Astous, regional supervisor of Indian offices in Quebec and New Brunswick.

MANY RESERVES

Rev. Sister St. Augustin, Superior of the Mission, spoke on the role of the educator in the Cercles des Ménagères. Afterwards, the delegates visited the homestead of the administration of Miss Prudence Sicot. Also on the program was an outline of the history of the Loretteville Reservation, given by Mrs. Edgar Gros-Louis.

During the afternoon the general public was admitted to an exhibition of tattooing in original Indian style.

POW-WOW

A sagamite dinner was served to the delegates. Later, a pow-wow took place in full Indian dress and Old Indian dances and chants.

The displays include most Indian products, from beaded moccasins to feathered headresses.

25 Years A Teacher

SANMAUR, P.Q.—Miss Ursula Bordeleau celebrates her 25th anniversary of teaching among the Têtes-de-Boule Indians on the upper St. Maurice River.

In 1928 she was the first school teacher at Manawan Reserve, North of Sanmaur. Miss Bordeleau was taught at Manawan for 20 years; for the past five years she taught summer school at Weymontaching across the St. Maurice River, North of Sanmaur; she has 45 pupils during the four summer months; she teaches them with so much devotion that the students of the Three Rivers praised her very specially when he recently visited the mission for Confirmation.

Other schools in this area were founded at Obedjiwan (1924) and at Weymontaching (1925). The Manawan Reserve has now a full-time school with two teachers. These are in charge of the Oblates Fathers who have their headquarters at Sanmaur.

Original Indian oil and watercolour paintings will be on exhibition.

Among the delegates who reported on their work we note: Messrines Ernest Cree, (Oka), Louise McComber, (Caughnawaga), Francois Damien, (Bersimis), Pierre St-Onge, (Seven Islands), Andrew Polson, (Notre-Dame-du-Nord), John B. Condo, (Maria), Dick Tenasco, (Maniwaki), and Jean-André Gros-Louis, (Lorette), M. Marshall, (Subenacadie), Peter Bernard, Nancy Morris and Margaret Christmas, (Eskasoni), Rebeca Picton, (Mimac, N.S.), Mrs. Bear, (Restigouche), Mrs. Peter Isaac, (Tobique, N.B.).

Father M. Jacob, a native priest from Caughnawaga, now in charge of St-Regis Mission in Ontario, celebrated Mass for those who attended the convention, at which hymns were sung in the Huron language.

The meeting was organized by Miss Prudence Sicot, Social Worker for Indian Affairs in the province of Quebec. She has been given the Iroquois name of "O-Ron-His" (Blue Princess).

Twelve Clubs

There are now 12 full-fledged Indian homemakers' clubs in the Province of Quebec.

These are: Caughnawaga (President), Mrs. Louise McComber; Hunter's Point, (Algonquin 1952) pres. Mrs. Peter Hunter; Maniwaki — Ontario Road (1942) pres. Mrs. Anne-Marie Sicot; Maniwaki — Ontario Road (1942) pres. Mrs. Anne Marie Sicot; Pierreville, (Algonquin) pres. Mrs. Raoul Tahamont; Peintre-Blue (Montagnais, 1950) pres. Mrs. Thomassey Robertson; Seven-Islands, (Maliotenam 1951), pres. Mrs. Mathieu Andre.

Fort Chimo Group Hospitalized

QUEBEC, July 27—An R.C.A.F. plane has brought to Parc Savard Hospital here in Quebec 11 Fort Mackenzie Indians who are suffering from tuberculosis. These Fort Mackenzie Indians were living in the vicinity of Fort Chimo during the summer.

Early in July, Indian Agencies Supervisor of the Great Northern Air group of the Indian Affairs Department, and 30 other Indians were flown from Fort Chimo, with a view of outfitting all able-bodied Indians, so that they would be able to return to their native homes at Fort Mackenzie, where trapping and hunting is excellent.

A pretty Indian Maiden smiles at Cardinal Léger who has won the hearts of all when he visited the Fort Alexander Indian Residential School.

Big Day For Caughnawaga,
Vermont Cedes Some Land

August 22 was a great day for Caughnawaga's Iroquois Indians. They were formally deeded part of the state of Vermont as "a gesture of friendship" for land taken from their ancestors many years ago.

The tribe was given a 150-foot strip of land in the Saxtons River section of the state, near Rockingham.

The official ceremony marking the event was held in the Rockingham town square with all the pomp attached to a "pow-wow" of 200 years ago.

On one side of a specially-constructed platform stood the delegation of 22 Indians in full ceremonial attire. On the other side, a party of prominent Rockingham citizens, including the mayor, his councillors and the police chief were dressed in old tattered pioneers' clothes.

Presentation of the deed was made to the chief by the descendant of an early settler who once helped fight the ancestors of the same Indians.

Canoe Cortege

At Indian Rites

VAL D'OR, Que., June 19 — Hundreds of Indians from tribes in northwest Quebec attended funeral services for the 106-year-old widow of an Algonquin chief.

The body of Margaret Wabase Papatie, widow of Chief Ignace Papatie who died six years ago aged 106, was carried through the town to the head of a convoy of canoes and small craft eight miles from Louise Bridge near here to the Roman Catholic church at Simon Lake.

After the service, the body was taken to a lonely point near the lake and buried.

Among those who attended were government officials who had known the late chief and his wife.

Says Quebec Ban Applies To Reserve

QUEBEC — Premier Duplessis warned promoters of an open-air cinema at Caughnawaga, an Indian reservation near Montreal, that this type of entertainment is banned in Quebec Province and transgressors will be severely punished.

Mr. Duplessis said his attention was drawn to the open-air cinema project by newspaper stories.

These implied that because Caughnawaga is an Indian reserve, under federal government control, a provincial ban on open-air cinema does not apply.

Mrs. Patapie died at her daughter's home at Jackson Landing, Grand Lake Victoria.

This time, however, there was no tomahawk or rifle in evidence as the two long-time "enemies" met and shook hands after the presentation.

With the deed went an invitation to the Indians to drop around this fall for Vermont's 10-day bow-and-arrow hunting season.

While the Indians now at least will be able to hunt in part of Vermont, their fight for land damages continues.

It is with deep regret that we have learned the accidental death of Russel Baker, Indian Agency Superintendent of Maniwaki, P.Q.

R.I.P.
Inspector Says Indians Need Additional Residential Schools

THE PAS, Man. — Establishment of two residential schools for accommodation of northern Manitoba’s fast-growing Indian population has been recommended to the Department of Indian affairs by School Inspector Gabriel Marcoux of Winnipeg.

Following an exhaustive on-the-spot survey of the situation, Mr. Marcoux had recommended that the department build one residential school to be managed by the Roman Catholic Church and another by the Church of England.

The Catholic school, he said, would replace the big Sturgeon Landing school destroyed by fire last autumn. Many of its pupils had to be sent back to their reserves, while the remainder have been accommodated at the emergency Guy Indian school in The Pas, built during the winter for just that purpose.

The Anglican school would replace the former McKay school at the Big Eddy reserve near here, which also was destroyed by fire some 20 years ago.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS

Other Indian school buildings recommended by Mr. Marcoux include: a four-room day school, now under construction, at The Pas reserve; a one-room addition to the United Church managed school at Nelson House, which will give that settlement settlement of three rooms, one of them a Catholic school; a one-room addition to the Cedar Lake residential school; a building of a new four-room school at Pukatawagan on the Lynn Lake railroad, where presently only a summer school exists.

The increase in Indian school population has to be fairly accurately estimated seven years in advance. Compulsory Indian school age is seven to 16, compared with seven to 17 in rural Manitoba and seven to 16 in Winnipeg.

Northern Manitoba’s Indian school population shows a fair increase coming. Cedar Lake, for example, has 51 children in school now; there will be 65 in 1959.

All the new Indian department schools are being built as modern as possible, including classroom equipment, sanitary facilities, and playgrounds. Teachers are all of high calibre, and the lessons all are taught in English.

Thus the Indian school children of the north are being given the same opportunities for education as are their white brothers to the south.

Dog Lake Chief Ousts Army

WINNIPEG, Man. — When the Army dropped flares in conjunction with an air exercise, six radio stations had been set up in rural areas of central Manitoba, including one of the Dog Lake Indian Reserve.

All went well until about three quarters of the way through the operation, three soldiers on duty at Dog Lake station were faced with the chief of the reservation and a party of braves who told the soldiers to bet or else. They got out.

However the next day Major L. M. Sebert, chief of operations, interviewed the Indian Chief and proceeded to recruit between whites and Indians.

Gabriel Kurtness Elected Chief

POINTE BLEUE, P.Q.—Recent elections at the Pointe Bleue Reservation in Quebec gave Chief Gabriel Kurtness a fourth term with eighteen voices over his opponent Mr. Jack Germain.

The councilors were Mr. Jack Germain, Mrs. Everett Connally, Mr. William Duchesne, Mr. Malek Raphael, Mr. Charles Bohin, Mr. René Bucceck, Mr. Joseph Gill, Mrs. Tony Nepton and Mrs. A. Adéodat Paul.

Missionaries Meet at Sandy Bay

MARIUS, Manitoba, August 6.—A two day meeting held at the Sandy Bay Residential School, gathered over 20 missionaries from Ontario, Minnesota and Saskatchewan to study problems relating to their work.

The meeting was presided over by Very Rev. Fr. P. Piché, Provincial of the Oblates, who, in an introductory talk, analyzed the results of Congresses held in previous years. Rev. Paul Dumouchel, O.M.I., Principal of Camperville Residential School, spoke on the organization of missionary activities; Father G. De Bretagne gave a substantial talk on the adaptation of Our Apostolic Methods to Indian psychology.

Very Rev. Philip Scheffer, Provincial for the Keewatin Vicariate, spoke on the use of moving pictures; Father O. Robidoux, Principal of the Lebret Residential School, expressed his views on the needs and the means of organizing High Schools for the Indians.

Last Of The Old Sioux Dies At Wood Mountain

by John Okute

WOOD MOUNTAIN (Sask.)—A chapter in the early story of the old west was closed in recent days with the passing of a Saskatchewan Indian who, as a boy of nine, saw the Sioux brave of Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse attack and destroy the American cavalry of General George Custer at Little Big Horn, Montana, in June, 1876.

Nupa-Ki-Kte (Kills-His-Victim-Twice) died at the Sioux reserve at Wood Mountain on April 20 at the age of 85. In his associations with the white man he was known as Joe Ferguson and more commonly addressed as “Big Joe.”

Big Joe was the last male survivor of the forces of Sitting Bull who fled to Saskatchewan following the Little Big Horn battle. From 1877 to 1914, his camping ground was in the Moose Jaw district and he was well-known to the people of that city. In 1874, he moved to Wood Mountain to make his home in a Sioux reserve that had been granted to his band by the Canadian government.

Nupa-Ki-Kte took part in the rebellion of 1885, on the side of Louis Riel, the Metis who rebelled against the Canadian government. His wife and 12 children predeceased him. The visible man in Nupa-Ki-Kte was two sons, one daughter, many grandchildren and great grandchildren. His wife and 12 children predeceased him.

White Man Said Crazy

Winning a $25 prize for the best 100-word description of a picture showing a deserted farm house and pulled field, was this entry quoted by Outdoor America and appearing in the latest Farm and Ranch:

Land of Plenty

A scientist, Doctor Robinson, suggests that the name of Toronto means “Plenty”, according to information given in an article by W. E. Connelly in the Ontario Archeological Report of 1899, which said that the Wyandots of Oklahoma once had a settlement at Toronto. They called this settlement “Tahroontahuk”, and they used this word because food was to be found in abundance.

Fried and Doctor To Indians

MEADOW LAKE, Sask. — Saskatchewan's most northerly resident doctor, Dr. Phillips E. Laviole, retired April 1 and the Cree and Chipewyans who live in the northern wilderness will miss his friendly greetings at treaty time this Summer.

For the past 18 years, whenever the Indians have gathered to visit, trade and make treaty, Dr. Laviole has been on hand to treat ailments, pull aching teeth and administer pills.

In his first year, Dr. Laviole treated 168 patients. Last year, 975 patients received the advantage of medical treatment in St. Joseph's Hospital, operated by the Roman Catholic mission.

The canoe and dog sled were the doctor’s first mode of transportation to some lonely trapper’s cabin where sickness still under the most treating conditions was often taken for granted. They travel now, in the North, by “snow bag”, speed boat and plane.

LEBRET INDIAN HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

LEBRET, Sask. — June 7 will long be remembered by the students of Lебret Indian School, when six High School Graduates received their diplomas from the hands of Archbishop M. C. O'Neill, of Regina; the R.C.M.P. Band from Regina was providing the music.

Native Rights Recognized In Saskatchewan

REGINA, July 1st.—Honorable J. W. Gorman, Attorney General for Saskatchewan, has taken the decision that the Government of Saskatchewan will not contest the judgment in Court of Appeal of the same Province respecting the hunting rights of the Indians.

Three of five judges have accepted the appeal made by Thomas Strongquill, of Keeeseekoose Reserve, who had been sentenced to pay a hundred and fifty dollar fine having killed a moose out of season in a provincial forest reserve.

Reference was made to the article on civil freedoms, of the British North America Act, and it has been noted that while the Provinces have the right to make laws on hunting they could not curtail the privileges granted to the Indians in virtue of an agreement made in 1850 concerning Natural Resources.

Quadruplets

MEADOW LAKE, Sask., July 22.—Jose Bear, 26 year old Cree of the Meadow Lake Reservation was quite surprised but happy when he learned that his wife has given birth to quadruplets.

Doctor P. E. Laviole, who had spent nineteen years at Ile-Ila-Crosse, Sask., attended the mother; three of the four children survived: Mary, Shirley and Theresa, who were baptized soon after their birth.
At the beginning of the school term, the boys and girls from grades six to eleven, with the help of Mr. Borden organized a Student's Union.

At the first meeting they elected four members of the executive: President - Francis Melting Tallow; Vice-President - Mary Celine Bull Bear; Treasurer - Matthew Sleijh; and Secretary - Isabel Crow Chief.

One of the major projects was the making of money for a new chapel. Throughout the year the students held four bingo parties, made ice cream and used many other means of making money.

On Father's Feast Day, Mary Celine Bull Bear on behalf of the Student's Union presented to the principal a cheque for $500. The remainder of the proceeds are to be used to pay for the cost of the year book and to provide playground equipment. In all the Union raised about $800.00 during the year.

During the February meeting it was decided to print a school paper every two months and at the end of the year print a year book. The first edition of the paper "Crowfoot Golden Wings" did make the editorial deadline but the increase of work prevented the other edition from doing so well. Since Joan Solway has been teaching herself how to type she was elected to be the editor of the Year Book.

The students are all looking forward to the new school year in September with a hope of fostering the zeal for work which was so dominant in this year's Student's Union.

In closing I would on behalf of the Student's Union like to express thanks to all those who made our project possible. In particular to the Sisters, especially, Sister Superior, Sister Marie Rustica, Sister Praxedes, Miss McHugh, Mr. Hackman and Miss Mindle.

Isabel Crow Chief.
Education Week Recalls History Of Blue Quills Indian School

Parents and Guests Impressed

ST. PAUL, Alberta — Besides being a display of achievement of the year's activities, Education Week at Blue Quills Indian School is also the sign for a general holiday within the school for the children, and on the campus for visiting parents who erected a teepee town overnight.

This year, more than ever before, on the fourth annual education week, parents and visitors from St. Paul, visited the school to view the amazing displays of fine work performed by the Indian boys and girls, tutored by the Oblate Fathers.

The purpose of Education Week is to give a chance to the parents to realize the worth of their sacrifices in being separated from their children, to see the progress these are doing in learning and to encourage both teachers and pupils in their worthy endeavours.

Another purpose is to make the pupils aware of the importance given to their welfare, and to urge them onto higher learning. It also reminds the teachers of their responsibilities and secures the support of all towards a complete education of the youth entrusted to their care.

March of Canada

The pageant “March of Canada” was the outstanding event of the week. The pupils demonstrated the development of Canada from pioneer days to our present times, including the explanation of the birth of the country and the meaning of our flag.

Field Day

A field day was the most appreciated event of the week; in the morning a parade led by the boys band, trained by Father Lyonnais, O.M.I., marked the beginning of various sports competitions. The band, the only one in the district, has received much acclaim by outsiders and is very much in demand at public celebrations.

Those taking part in field events were teams from Saddle Lake, Long Lake and Good Fish Lake.

Blue Quills Indian Residential School is so well known to many of us in the St. Paul District that like things well known we take it for granted and if at one time we knew of its origin and history, it is probably forgotten.

Exemplary missionary work in the education of our Indian masses is being done in this institution and we take the occasion of the recent education week to remind you of its history.

Most of the following facts have been compiled from the official Blue Quills Education Week “Memorabilia” program.

The first Indian school for the Saddle Lake district was erected in 1892 at Lac La Biche by Rev. Fr. Henry Grandin and the administration was given to the Rev. Grey Nuns of Montreal.

On December 7th, 1901, the pupils of Saddle Lake numbering 55 were transferred to St. Paul, where one of the finest schools for Indians was erected. The Government, through the Canadian Government, it is the actual Blue Quills Residential School. The Rev. Grey Nuns had the administration of the school from the beginning till 1929 when they asked the Rev. Oblate Fathers to assume it for the years to come.

School Principal

Reverend Father Etienne Ber­net-Rollande was born on June 10th, 1913, at Paris, France. In 1933 he was sent mission­ary to Canada in the Oblate Province of Alberta-Saskatchewan. He studied the Cree language at Delmas, Sask. Then he took charge of the Beaver Lake Re­serve, Grand Bay and Elnore settlement while he was stationed at Lac La Biche.

In 1947, he is named Principal of the Blue Quills Residential School for this district. He devotes himself to the education of the Indian children seeking always to improve their welfare. He encourages them to go through High School as is ascertained at the present time by those attending grade IX, X and XI at St. Paul.

He has at heart the temporal and spiritual welfare of all the pupils committed to his care, as everyone attending the education week can testify. Under his admin­istration, a new wing to the main building started in 1961, has been completed, giving plenty of room for classes, shops, a gymnasium and thus being able to accommodate more pupils in the future.

The new extension is a two­storey structure. The main floor contains a spacious gymnasium and auditorium combined, two pleasant workshops for boys hand­craft work, and a cozy two­room suite for house employees. Two convenient lavatories and shower bath flank these new quarters.

The blessing of these new premises occurred on June the 5th. His Excellency Bishop P. Lussier officiating.

Junior High School Opened At Grouard

GROUARD, Alberta. — Part of the former Bishop's residence at Grouard, is being re­moled to receive a number of Indian girls who are pursuing their studies in grades 7, 8 and 9, and special courses in home economies.

A classroom and several bed­rooms will comprise the new quar­ters in which the students will share the same activities and meals with the other pupils of the Grouard Indian Residential School.

Indian Work Displayed At Calgary

CALGARY, Alberta. — An area on the first floor building at the Calgary Exhibition had been reserved for the new display of Indian Work. Exhibits prepared from the various Indian day and residential schools of Alberta ranged from pillow cases to children's knitted clothing, from art exhibits to the traditional Indian buckskin jaskets and mocassins.

In the children exhibits from various Indian schools of Alberta there were many entries, that leave much space to display them. Besides the painting and lettering there were wood­working and shop displays as well as needle work exhibits of good calibre.

The work of patients in the St. Anne's Indian Hospital, at Edmonton, was also shown. Besides beads and clothing there were some beautifully dressed dolls with beaded buckskin outfits.

A third section of the exhibit was prepared by adult Indians of the various reservations consisting of rugs, pillow-slips, table-cloths and aprons.

On exhibit also, were wheat, oats and barley seeds; jam, canned fruit, dried or smoked meat, as well as various articles of Indian art. Among the most original art exhibit, we note an illustrated calendar, which was prepared by Carl Big Plume, an Indian from Calgary, winning first prize in that class.

Seneca Roots Brings Extra Money

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alberta. — Indians digging Seneca roots in this area are reported making $40 to $50 dollars a week as additional income.

Seneca is small plant with a tiny blue flower and roots covered with grey bark; it is found in abundance in various areas of Canada.
Musk-ox Stages Comeback

OTTAWA — The mysterious musk-ox, believed to be the missing link between the sheep and the ox, appears to be making a comeback in Canada’s barren Arctic.

A recent survey by the Resources Department indicates that there are several large herds of musk-ox, totalling 1,000 or more.

The musk-ox, which grows to be a husky 1000 pound beast, is found only in Canada’s arctic. In 1927, a herd of 200 lived in the Thelon game sanctuary, northeast of Great Slave Lake. A few months ago, a hundred-head herd was spotted near Great Bear Lake.

Blood Indians’ “Club” One Of Canada’s Most Select

CARDSTON, Alta. — One of Canada’s most exclusive clubs is the Kainai chieftainship, restricted to 35 members, all honorary chiefs of the Blood Indians of southwestern Alberta.

Formed in 1896, the organization meets only twice a year and is composed of notable public figures.

One of the chiefs, Earl Alexander, British Defence Minister, says the object of the Kainai chieftainship is to “preserve all the fine traditions of the Bloods, to broaden their knowledge so that they may, through an advanced system of Indian education, achieve that high level of citizenship for which they are so eminently qualified.” Literally speaking, Kainai means “many chiefs” but the accepted meaning in the Blood tribe’s language is the name of a Blood Indian band.

When the chieftainship was formed, it absorbed those who had been honorary chiefs by the Bloods earlier. These included the Duke of Windsor who was made a chief in 1949 while he was Prince of Wales.

The one vacancy open now is being held for Hon. C. D. Howe, and non-political body include the Earl of Bessborough, former governor-general of Canada, Rod Cameron, Hollywood cowboy star, and Senator W. A. Buchanan, publisher of the Lethbridge Herald.

Hard Times on West Coast

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. — Because of the new policy of fish-canners to discontinue cash issue to the natives during the off-season, Mr. N. Gerrard, Indian Agency Superintendent, has stated recently that a considerable number of Indians, who, in the past, were able to get through the winter without relief, are now finding it very difficult.

Several cases of hardship have also been reported in the Noothka area. Relief from the Indian Affairs Branch is now issued in the form of checks on the stores on the Coast, averaging $9 worth of food a month for the first member of a family, with half an order allowed for each additional member.

New Provincial Of English Oblates

Very Rev. John Fergus O’Grady, OMI, whose educational and social work among the Western Canadian Indians has gained him a country-wide reputation, was recently named Provincial of the English-speaking Oblates of Mary Immaculate in Canada, succeeding the Very Rev. Joseph R. Birch, OMI, now General Assistant of the Oblates in Rome.

Father O’Grady has been superior and director of Cariboo Indian Residential School at Williams’ Lake, B.C., since last July. Prior to that appointment he was at the Indian Residential School in Kamloops, B.C.

It was at Kamloops that Father Vern Nahaneel, Boxing Champion

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. — Vern Nahaneel, a Squamish Indian, has just won the 1953 Buckskin Gloves championship for the seventy-pound class.

In 1951 he had won the Silver Gloves tournament for 16 years and under trophy; in 1952 he won both sixty and seventy pounds championships in the following tournaments: Buckskin Gloves Emerald Gloves, events sponsored by the Knights of Columbus of Vancouver; now he is also the winner in the Bronze Gloves tournament.

This year, he has excelled in hand balancing, having trained with Alex Strain, being as good as any professional in major shows.

Indian Housing Problem Expected in 15 Years

A serious problem arising from increase in Canada’s Indian population to such an extent that present reserves will not be able to support them was forecast for about 15 years time in a report on Indian schools and missions presented by Rev. Eric Cole at the 56th annual meeting of the synod of the diocese of Calgary.

“While the native population is not two per cent of the total number in Canada, said Canon Cole, I firmly believe that with the present rate of population increase the Canadian Government will have a new and serious problem in the next 15 years or so, as lands acquired by the Indians will not be large enough for all to find a home and seek a living.”

Two courses will be open, either (a) to educate the Indian to take his place in the competitive world as tradesmen, mechan-ics, etc., or (b) to settle aside other reserved lands for farming or stock raising.

“As circumstances permit and services are available, I think a survey of our school children should be made about every five years by competent examiners, and those able to go on in the academic training should be given every encouragement while others should be channeled into technical studies to fit them for the vocation best fitted to their native ability.

Santa Fe Seminary Enrolls Three Indians

Father Cullen of the Marquette League, well known for his faith and devotion to Indian youth, announces that this fall will see three Indian lads enrolled for the priesthood at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary in Santa Fe.

They are Bernard Kayate, Laguna Pueblo, David Herrera, Chotili Pueblo and Anselm Davis, a Navajo. Anselm announced after his graduation from St. Catherine’s Indian School in Santa Fe that he would become a Seminarian this fall. He is a brother of Sister Maria Goretti, the first Navajo girl to enter the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament.

Established by Mother M. Katherine Drexel to do missionary work among the Indian and colored people in the United States, the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament administer three of the largest and most modern mission schools on Indian reservations.

The Sacred College of Cardinals

This august and polyglot body is the directorate of that cosmopolitan spiritual inn, vast and durable, which is known as the Roman Catholic Church. It is sometimes defined as the Church’s senate. Its members are advisers to the Pope in matters of doctrine and administration, and it is they who, when a Pope dies, gather in Rome and elect his successor.
THE organization of the National Indian Pilgrimage to our Lady's Shrine, is progressing rapidly. We are happy to report that quite a number of Indian groups are to take part in this pilgrimage.
