STUDY BOOK VISUAL AID

An excellent visual aid in any study of the problems facing the Indian people of this country, "Two Strangers" is the name of a filmstrip recently purchased by the Diocesan Council for Social Service and now available to groups in this diocese.

"Two Strangers" is a pictorial resource for those using the book, Right To A Future - The Native Peoples of Canada, which is recommended for study by the Anglican Churchwomen this year. The filmstrip, which is free to any group for a scheduled time, can be obtained by writing to The Rev. A. R. Cuyler, Box 180, New Liskeard, Ont., and informing him the date you wish to have it.

Meeting To Study Work of Prayer

Intended for all those who know the power of prayer, to share the knowledge they have, or who would like to learn more of what prayer means to the Church around the world, an important conference is being planned which will present a unique opportunity to meet with persons from many different countries who will gather in Toronto for two days in April to consider the theme, "Mission begins in Prayer."

This will be the eleventh annual conference of the Anglican Fellowship of Prayer, an international organization which began, and has its headquarters in the United States, but includes in its membership many prominent Anglican bishops, priests, and lay people in Canada, the British Isles, Europe, Africa, and Asia. This will be the first time the conference has met in Canada.

Attention is drawn to the fact that names of all those who would appreciate an invitation to this international conference should be forwarded as soon as possible to the Secretary in charge of registrations, The Rev. J. R. Moore, 43 Poyntz Ave., Willowdale, Ont. As there will be many hundreds of person attending those with special interest should be informed and recommended by their parish clergy so they may be able to share in this important event.

Full details of the conference will be mailed to all those who signify an interest and desire to attend, but it is expected that as many as twenty different groups will meet with leaders in workshops and seminars to think of the scope of prayer in the program of "Mutual Responsibility and Interdependence" begun by the Anglican Congress which was also held in Toronto a few

The conference begins at noon on Friday, April 26, at the Anglican Diocesan Centre, near St. James' Cathedral, Toronto. The opening banquet will be held at 6 p.m. with The Rt. Rev. G. B. God in His reconciling work uses His Church as an agency for healing throughout the world. Everywhere the Church goes it has to be the bearer of peace and good-will. TRUE ROYALTY

Each parish has re-enacted the Bible story by taking a towel and washing the disciples' feet. It has been one of the most romantic episodes in the life of each parish to view the long procession of faithful souls, young and old, who have worshipped faithfully and witnessed constantly to the great truths of our Church. Men and women, boys and girls of devotion who have laboured faithfully in Christ's Church and who today are marching forward, undergirded by fervent prayer.

We are justified in pausing a moment and asking this question, Why? forward to re-enact our Lord's act of humble service in the washing of the disciples' feet? It is because each soul is of infinite value in the sight of

The Church is a body which cares deeply for man and all his needs because it is founded upon the fact of the Incarnation. If the Son of God entered human life as man there can be no part of human life to which the love of God does not penetrate. The Church is pledged by its very nature to be the channel of that love. The goal is the re-making of man into the shape for which God created him.

Man is made in the image of God. This is what gives lustre and meaning to all Christian "social service," the emphasis that must be placed upon the value of the individual. A concrete example of this principle is seen in the world-wide interest being shown in the "heart transplants"

However humble your lot in life; however restricted your opportunities; however commonplace your tasks, there is always something you can do for God. There is a towel always ready at hand, a word that you can speak for Christ, a cup of cold water you can give in His Name, a hand that you can stretch out to lift the burden from a brother's weary back.

Within the membership of the Church Jesus offers you a towel. He calls you to consecrate your daily life to service. > When Queen Victoria was worshipping in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, to give thanks for the recovery of the Prince of Wales, Tennyson wrote a very beautiful poem and this was the first line:

O loyal to the royal in thy self.

True royalty expresses itself at its best in faithful service no matter where God has called us to work.

Workshop for Women. It has a very formidable sound, but it is the best therapy for stimulating the mind. Granted we were all wilted roses by Thursday evening, but it was satisfying, though exhaust-

Wednesday evening a film on "Women on the March for Freedom and Equality" was shown and the following questions were asked: "Have we modern women got it?"...
"What are we doing with it?" Some felt modern woman was looking for recognition, equality, similarity, but still retain her femininity; to sum up, fulfillment. Others felt too much was made of fulfillment, and that we had become brainwashed by Betty Friedan; yet what else could be derived when she definitely wants these very things.

Fulfillment to me means satisfaction with what you are doing, in your capabilities, whether staying in the home, cooking, sewing, and in general raising a family. It can come too by working in the community, at a job, at service work, Church work, hospital auxiliary, caring for the sick, invalids, or shut-ins. This is all up to us as individuals as to how much we can do and with what intentions we have for doing it.

I got into a discussion with one of the clergy about the "voice of women," that women wanted to be heard, and above all, listened to. He said that matter how small. if women wished to speak which we had to stoop in order first and then a Christian, or they have to take time off from their work to attend, and represent the parish. It was here that the clergyman informed us that the motion to allow women in synod had come up year after year and finally to get rid of this thorn in the side they voted affirmative. He himself disapproved of having women represented and said that one half of the men felt the same way. If this is the case, what sort of voice will women have at synod? What will she have gained?

The next day a skit "Angelica Anglican" was presented -based on the assumption by others that Angelica wasn't doing anything within her Church and community. She was the type that came to church as a child until Confirmation and then left because there wasn't anything to interest her. She re-appeared when she married and brought her children to be baptized as it was the thing to do, and then disappeared again.

Is Angelica someone we know? Do we have responsibility for her? The general consensus was that this applied to almost the entire Church. It is up to everyone as individuals to respect people as persons and not as future prospects for organizations, particularly us as we deal with Anglican Churchwomen. If a person feels she is working within her capacity but does not wish to attend our meetings, we must take this into consideration and respect them for their efforts no been a recognized Christian pracment it was a stipulated levy, imposed on a people who were gradually learning about God and His dealings with men; but in the New Testament there is a virtual disappearance of any mention of the tithe, because, as St. Paul points out, there is now " . . . a more excellent way."

Before pursuing this point may I say that there are dangers in tithing for the sake of tithing or even on the basis that it is scripturally sound. I list some of them on stewardship facts: " . . . the paying of the tithe might also disclose a declining scale of motivation such as the acceptance of a levy; an attempt at face-saving; doing what others are doing; doing penance to erase a guilt complex; or as an alternative to giving money more Christian than I, does not by some tithers that they already ingly, with gratitude and joy have one foot in heaven. These are dangers in making tithing an end in itself.

To return to the more excellent way: these are the words which St. Paul uses just before writing that great chapter on Christian love (I Corinthians 13). In the same vein, we must keep in mind that our Lord taught that our conduct

CONGRATULATE AUTHOR

Mr. E. Newton-White, the author of the Gillmor biography, recently published by the Diocese of Algoma, has been greatly heartened by the messages of congratulation he has received. Although he is Christmas, the sermon took the hospitalized most of the time form of a puppet play directed by now, any letters may be di- The Rev. F. R. Coyle, Rector of 525, Haileybury, Ont. Copies Algoma. The play was "A Tale of of the book are still available; St. Nicholas"; those taking part ask your rector or write to were Fr. Coyle as Narrator and the Synod Office, Box 637, Thaddeus, Bob Andrews as Nicho-Sault Ste Marie. They are las, Laurel Cartmill as Elena, and three dollars a copy.

I do not preach tithing as such | must not only be in keeping with because I do not believe it has ever the Ten Commandments but must go beyond them as we " . . . love tice or teaching. In the Old Testa- the Lord our God with all our heart, with all our soul, with all our mind and with all our strength; and our neighbour as ourself." In short, commitment of all we have and are in His service. The old legal guidelines are superseded by the greater and more excellent way -the Christian Way.

In the New Testament we read such phrases as "unto half of my goods;" "sell what you have and give to the poor," "she gave all that she had," "give away all one has and deliver one's body to be here in a quotation from a booklet burned." All these make the tithe look rather insignificant. However, I'm not belittling the tithe, because if every Anglican family were to tithe, the amount of money raised in each parish would increase by three or four times what it now is, and just think of the financial assistance we could give to missions to an 'already too voracious' gov- then. What I am driving at is that ernment." The author, perhaps the Christian concept of stewardship, based on the spirit of the mention the spiritual pride some- above quoted texts, is one in which times demonstrated by those giving the believer, aware of all he has the tithe, nor the subtle suggestion from God, gives freely and increas-

I must admit that the majority of us have not reached that stage of commitment, and still ask the often heard question, "How much should I give?", or "What is my duty?". The answer then may well be to start with the tithe, i.e., aim for it and work up to it; then once we get there use it as a jumping off point towards true Christian stewardship. Tithing when practiced is a good beginning, but only a beginning. Christian stewardship is a "more excellent way." _____0
