

Leah Decter

Bio

Leah Decter is a Winnipeg based inter-media artist whose work integrates video, digital media, installation, textiles, performance, social practice and writing. She has exhibited and presented her work widely in Canada, and internationally in the US, UK, Australia, India and Germany. Her videos have also been screened nationally and internationally. Decter's work considers the historical and contemporary mechanisms of settler colonialism, discourses of reconciliation, and strategies of decolonization in Canada through a critical white settler lens. She holds an MFA in New Media from Berlin-based Transart Institute and is currently undertaking a PhD in Cultural Studies at Queen's University in Kingston.
